Master's Course in International Relations

ONE YEAR TO TRAIN GLOBAL LEADERS

The MIR is an innovative postgraduate program developed for graduates willing to deepen their knowledge of the field of international relations through an immediate privileged experience with a distinguished faculty and top-level professionals.

The principal aim of the Course is to provide students with knowledge and managerial skills indispensable for a professional career in international organizations and companies working in a constantly changing global environment.

The MIR provides a well-balanced combination of theory and practise, by focusing on international relations, economics, politics and law, as well as, those emerging issues that challenge today's global system: trade, finance, security, information and communication technology, energy, environment and global networks.

THE ASERI DIFFERENCE

- ASERI Masters' courses are in response to the current job market demands: they train students in a constant face to face comparison with theoretical topics, but provoking their personalities and experiences to form a practical and highly professional point of view.
- With this in mind, the Università Cattolica decided to create ASERI in 1995 as a centre of excellence in the heart of Milan. Students experience the new global reality through a unique collaboration of exclusive international faculty, meetings with senior executives, multicultural classes, flexible modular-format courses in English and international internships.
- Given to its expertise and multi-disciplinary nature, the ASERI approach offers a strong functional understanding of international issues and processes, as well as an in-depth scientific study of methodologies, disciplines and career training.

EXPERIENCES OF ASERI

“ASERI is a meeting point... of disciplines: international economics, politics, business; ...of approaches: academic, managerial and institutional; ...of people: different backgrounds, different nationalities and different ages. This mix makes of ASERI a source of opportunities”.

Massimo Sparagi, Senior Manager, ABB - Milan

“ASERI has been one of the most difficult study experiences in my life; being in front of Economics books for the first time puzzled me, but it was fascinating and challenging too. A team work dimension never abandoned us during the entire course, as well as an enthusiastic and passionate research of stimuli, solutions and ideas. ASERI has a unique characteristic, to be a “laboratory” to experience new ideas and a network.

Manuela Prina, Young Professional, Asian Development Bank - Manila

“ASERI has been the place of our maturity, where peculiarities - depending on different nature and education - found their way out in a more mature consciousness of our aptitudes related to the professional goals offered by the essential economic fields of our society”.

Luigi Zarro, Senior Consultant, Buchan Consulting - Melbourne

“I am very proud of my Master at ASERI, one of the highlights of my academic career. It brings people from different parts of the world together and builds bridges between cultures. For me, ASERI is an international platform where everybody can voice their opinions without prejudice. I am glad that I had a chance to study in an environment of sharing and understanding”.

Ceren Uysal, Research Fellow, Akdeniz University - Antalya

“ASERI offers many professional outlets to its students. Numerous companies and international organizations sustain the ASERI project and this let the School give its students the opportunity of presenting their candidature with excellent references”.

Giovanna Lazzarini, European Affairs Delegate, Mediaset - Milan

CURRICULUM

The MIR program is spread over 4 integrated levels aimed at fostering a multi-dimensional education which includes also research skills, analytical tools and professional development.

1st level - Scientific Training & Management Skills

Course attendance offers an important opportunity to meet an international faculty and deepen the theoretical analysis of the economic, political, historical, legal and institutional issues relevant to the global system.

Due to the multi-disciplinary character of this area, students have the opportunity to study and evaluate specific problems from different yet connected points of view.

THE PROGRAM FOCUSES ON FOUR DISCIPLINARY AREAS:

A - Economics

- International Development
- Understanding Economic Integration: Trade, FDI and Migration
- International Monetary Economics
- International Finance
- The Open Economy: Theory and Policy

B - International Relations

- America and Europe in the 21st Century
- China and the World Politics in the 21st Century
- Great Powers within the Advanced Industrial World
- The Global Proliferation of Regional Integration
- Rise of China and Transformation of World Politics

C - Law and Institutions

- Public International Law
- EU Law and Institutions
- Human Rights and International Law
- Comparative Regional Integration
- International Trade: the WTO

D - Management skills and Development

- Developing managerial skills in a global context
- Communicate and Negotiate: a Managerial Effectiveness Perspective
- Eagle Racing Simulation
- European Lobbying

2nd level - Advanced Training on Global Issues

The MIR includes an advanced training program on the most relevant global issues that governments, international organizations, NGOs and multinational private companies are facing at the beginning of the third millennium. Professionals and experts from specific areas are involved in planning, organizing and teaching in this level:

Trade

- International trade
- Seminars and case studies

Finance

- The international financial system and development
- Seminars and case studies

Security

- Global security: actors and dynamics
- Seminars and case studies

International Organizations

- The agenda of IOs and dynamics of their work
- Seminars and case studies

Energy and Environment

- Environmental economics and natural resources
- Seminars and case studies

3rd level - Project Work

Participants join in the elaboration of a project work where the multidimensional analysis of a problem leads to the identification of its fundamental nodes. Students develop their research activity within small, well integrated groups in order to strengthen their ability to work in teams. Each group deepens a topic related to one of the 2nd level global issues areas. Project works will be supervised both by a professor and a professional from a partner institution.

4th level - Internship

The scientific research activity is completed by an internship. Therefore students have the opportunity to put into practice what they have learnt.
